To Whom It May Concern:

Last May I was tasked with organizing a golf outing for a group of approximately 30 of our consultants. I wanted an event that would be both fun and informative. I contacted Ron Carroll and he quickly provided me with a several options that would suit our needs. He sent me a comprehensive description of these options as well as pricing ranges. He responded to emails and phone calls incredibly quickly and I was fully confident that the event would go as planned.

The clinic itself was extremely well run. Ron and another pro led the event. Our analysts were given putting, chipping, and driving lessons, as well as a session on golf etiquette in the workplace. Ron adjusted the lessons to suit the wide range of experience among our consultants. All of our consultants walked away saying how much they enjoyed the afternoon. Further, after the session Ron went above and beyond, providing a micro-page for the attendees to view pictures of the event as well as the content covered.

Based on the superior service Ron provided to us and the success of the event, I would highly recommend Ron as a coordinator for similar golf outings. I am planning on working with him again to coordinate another event next year.
